NEW BEDFORD

"One of the Most Interesting Cities in America"

COMPILED BY H. A. MANNING COMPANY, WITH THE ASSISTANCE OF THE NEW BEDFORD BOARD OF COMMERCE

The publishers of this Directory have attempted in the following pages to give the outstanding features of the City of New Bedford. The local resident or businessman as well as the potential visitor will have at hand a ready reference about the city and its people. The purpose here is to portray as much of New Bedford's charm and greatness as is consistent with facts.

The Directory is in effect an encyclopedia of knowledge about the city. It shows localities, street changes, growth of sections, and general city changes. The names of residents give evidence of racial characteristics, which is helpful to anyone making a detailed study of New Bedford.

The New Bedford Directory becomes a part of the Free Directory Library Exchange System of North America, and through this medium disseminates information about the city far and wide.

• 'LUCEM DIFFUNDO—
—I DIFFUSE LIGHT'•

LOCATION—Symtomatic of its location New Bedford is called "The Gateway to Cape Cod." It is also known as "The Whaling City." Both of these cognomens are very apt as they pertain to its location as well as its character. As a gateway to the most delightful old region in America—Cape Cod, it is so situated that it is the "capital" of this summer land in Bristol county. The location at the northwest end of Buzzards Bay early appealed to seafaring folk who have forever attached the name of their calling to the city. Because of its geographical location and many other advantages New Bedford is the logical place for both the tourist and traveller to make their headquarters if they desire to visit the industrial centers or the various shore and inland resorts of Southern New England. Boston is 56 miles, New York City 210, Providence 31, Fall River 13, Worcester 79, Provincetown 89, Schenectady 221, Buffalo 486, Chicago 1,034, Montreal 379, Concord 134, Bangor 289, Burlington 285, Philadelphia 308, Washington 443.

TOPOGRAPHY—New Bedford is most beautifully situated on Buzzards Bay and the remarkable sea coast country adjacent to Cape Cod. It covers an area of 19.39 square miles, and is an average of 60 feet elevation above sea level within the city limits. The city has a perfect drainage because of the rising ground from the harbor to the resident sections of the city. To the north the terrain is rolling and ideal for residence; to the west it is level sea coast land; to the east begins the famous Cape Cod country. While there are no hills or mountains within the New Bedford district, the country has its charm in the sea coast, the beaches, the pleasant drives through woods and by lakes. It is a most pleasant section in which to live. The city is elongated in its measure, with a length of ten miles and width of two and one-half miles. Acushnet Avenue is the longest lateral street of eight and one-half miles, more than six miles of it devoted to business. Kempton Street is the longest cross street, of one and three-fourths miles; this street continues in to a thorough way to Fall River and the west. Ashley Boulevard takes part of the traffic of Acushnet Avenue entering from the north and cutting through to the central section of the city for two and three-fourths miles, facilitates to eliminate congestion of traffic in the downtown sections. The extreme lower end of the city extends into a peninsula of one and one-half miles in length, ending in Fort Rodman. To the west of this peninsula is Clark's Cove and to the east is the Acushnet River which forms the main channel of he harbor and here enters into Buzzards Bay.

HISTORICAL—The history of New Bedford is replete with interesting facts about its past. It is city with a glorious past, a great present, and a promising future. Here in this city was enacted one of the greatest romances of modern history—the whaling industry, the only complete record of the birth life and death of a great industry. Of the total number of 554 whaling ships afloat in 1839, 177 were from New Bedford and 44 from Fairhaven; 221 from this port. There are probably more legends connected with New Bedford than any city in America. New Bedford always did things. They say that others used to give whales to their daughters for wedding dowries and portions for their nieces with tly w porpoises apiece, and that there were reservoirs of oil in every house, and every night they recklessa burned their lengths in spermacetti candles. Much has been written about Old Time New Bedford that it would be impossible to touch upon in this brief paragraph. There is little doubt that New Bedford was founded and made famous by men of great worth and bravery. "The sturdy houses and flowery gardens came from the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans. One and all they were harpooned and dragged up hither from the bottom of the sea." There are many monuments to these times scattered about New Bedford. There is the Mariners Home on Johnny Cake Hill, Seamen's Bethel next door, where you will see the unique Cenotaphs to the Sea Dead; here, also, you will see the tablet dedicated to the memory of Captain George Fred Bilton, the most picturesque of our whaling captains; the whaling museum of the Old Dartmouth Historical Society on Johnny Cake Hill, contains a hump-backed whale skeleton, the Lagoda, the largest whale ship model in the world and on the surrounding walls are displayed a large variety of whale irons; there are Figure Heads taken from the prows of bygone ships, and stern boards showing the craftsmanship of the old ship-builders; also examples of the old shops that carried on trade in this city during the whaling era; in the public library will be found a wealth of material on whaling era. In the City Hall the oldest continuous meteorological records in the United States are kept; the Old Friends Meeting House is the first meeting house for religious purposes erected in the city and still in use; there are many beautiful old homes of the whaling era in New Bedford and they add much to the charm of the city; this from Herman Melville's story, "Moby Dick"; "The town itself is perhaps the dearest place to live in all New England more opulent than in New Bedford." New Bedford however, is more than a city of the past, it is alive and teeming with modern history. It is making history today just as truly as it did years ago. It has been transformed into a commercial, financial, industrial and residential city with all that implies.

POPULATION—The growth of New Bedford has been on an upward trend for many years, with temporary setbacks it has grown from 3,313 in 1790 to 121,217 in 1920. Since 1920, owing to the depression of business there has been a loss and the 1940 census gave 110,341 as the correct population. The publishers of this Directory estimate present population as 115,500 based on the number of families and the number of names appearing in this Directory. Growth shown as follows since 1790 when it was 3,313; 1800, 4,361; 1810, 5,651; 1830, 7,592; 1850, 16,443; 1870, 21,320; 1890, 40,733; 1900, 62,442; 1910, 96,652; 1920, 121,217; 1930, 112,597; 1940, 110,341; 1951 directory estimate 112,000. New Bedford, as a city, has a diverse population which holds much interest for the student of nationality communities. Of its population of approximately 116,000 about 69 per cent are native born; another 26½ per cent are foreign born white; 3¾ per cent are Negro and ¼ of 1 per cent represent other races. The predominating nationalities are Portuguese, French-Canadian, English and Polish; however, practically all European Countries are represented. The Negro population, also, may be divided as to nationalities since West Indian, Cape Verdean (Portuguese) and American Negroes make up its numbers. Some people refer to the city as a little League of Nations and civic groups recognize these various interests. This is shown by the local radio station having regular Portuguese hours, French hours, and occasional Polish programs. For more than a century since the days of the underground railway, when New Bedford was one of its stations, the community has had a tradition of racial tolerance and cooperation. Population of contiguous territory to New Bedford is about 25,000; population within 8 miles of City Hall, 142,000; population within 75 miles, 5,000,000. In New Bedford there are 27,920 families, with 9,465 owning their own homes and 17,936 tenant families. Total population covered by this Directory is 130,000.

NEW BEDFORD FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY

613 Pleasant cor. William

Organized in 1852, our library is one of the first free public libraries in the United States. It was located from 1856 to 1908 on the site of the present City Hall. The present building, of distinctive Doric architecture, was erected in 1839 as a town hall and public market. It was used as the City Hall until 1906 when it was partially destroyed by fire.

The library now contains about 240,000 books including special collections on genealogy, Quakeriana, textiles and whaling. Many outstanding paintings are displayed in the building and there is a large collection of photographs of the city. Among special library services are the Juvenile Room, Art collection, Business and Technical Lecture hall for meetings, extension service for hospitals and shutins.

Churches

The Churches of New Bedford and Fairhaven are a BULWARK to uphold and promote all that is for the good of New Bedford.

Their doors are open in invitation to come and learn, to fortify against the everyday tendency to wear down the resistance of good character, honesty, integrity, and dependability.

These are the things your country and the world need today. These are the things that are being assailed by strong and unseen forces.

The Church of today is an emissary of goodwill. It is the FOUNDATION of the firm rock of right thinking and living.

It offers guidance to all, is reaching out a friendly hand with all the patience of a father to a child. We all need the Church. The Church needs you, but you need the Church more.

"It is the mission of the Church to proclaim the Gospel to all mankind exalting the worship of the one true God, and laboring for the progress of knowledge, the promotion of justice, the reign of peace, and the realization of brotherhood, depending as did our forefathers upon the continued guidance of the Holy Spirit to lead us into all Truth."

The Churches of New Bedford invite all to spend an hour a week refreshing their minds and hearts for strength to conquer for the right.

CIVIC ACTIVITIES

The history of a community has been written in many ways but no effort or publication can mirror a more complete, comprehensive and accessible story than your City Directory.

Within its covers, with the cooperation of the organizations shown on the following pages, the publishers present a pictorial and informational display of this community's activities.

Such organizations are as necessary as commercial and industrial plants since they promote the spiritual, charitable, social, health and service duties which make this a greater city. Without them there would be no community life and civic betterment.

With these pages, they take an important part in the yearly recording of your city's history so that the people may visualize and appreciate their purposes and use and join in their activities.

Information about other organizations may be found by turning to the Index to Contents

DENNISON MEMORIAL

Ladies CITY MISSION Society

The Ladies City Mission Society, with a continuous record of 103 years service to New Bedford people, now concentrates its work with young people through the Dennison Memorial.

For fifty years, young people have been using Dennison Memorial and have here learned the lesson of fair play and ability to cooperate which later enabled them to lead useful constructive lives and to become, very often, leading citizens of their community.

The activities at Dennison Memorial are varied and include: Well-Baby Clinic, Home Nursing Class, Boys' Recreation and Girls' Recreation under supervision, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs, Brownies, Women's Union, Summer Program in the Playground, Daily Vacation Bible School, Young People's Clubs, handicraft and art groups. There are in addition, both vocal and instrumental Music groups, sewing and knitting classes for adults.

Dennison Memorial's only support is by gifts, endowments and the Community Fund.

Remember the City Mission in your will. The City Mission is legally competent to accept bequests and earnestly seeks such gifts for either general or specific purposes, or for the establishment of suitable memorials. Any information or advice will be gladly furnished upon application, direct or through your legal advisor.

Industrial New Bedford

New Bedford has a very interesting history as an industrial city. Of course we must begin with the whaling industry that centered in New Bedford many years ago. The decline of this industry made it necessary for New Bedford people to look to other pursuits for a livelihood. Intensively it carried on the searching the seven oceans of the world for whales and bringing back to New Bedford their precious cargoes of oil and by-products. It is a recorded fact that this industry brought wealth to this city and established it as a home of capital.

The development of the textile industry here was brought about by the circumstance of accumulated capital plus men of energy and vision. Also the location was right for the development of an industry and the gathering of workers to learn how to do it better than in any other place. New Bedford grew into the center of fine cottons, and for many years has been the center of the spot cotton market of the north.

Today New Bedford is particularly well adapted to manufacture with over 1,060,000 feet of floor space available for that purpose. There are 35,000 skilled workers with living costs favorable to competition with any section in the United States. All the factors are favorable to the future of Industrial New Bedford. Stocks and bonds of 26 of New Bedford's industries are listed on the stock exchanges, a particularly significant showing. It is one of the large yachting and fishing centers on the Atlantic seaboard. Within 400 miles of New Bedford is a manufacturers' market of nearly 30,000,000 population.

Some of the products made in New Bedford include such as: Large quantities of cotton and silk dress goods, cotton and rayon cloths, fine cotton and rayon yarns, blankets, sheets, pillow cases, etc. Also fine tools, twist drills, screws, die cut glass, shirts, underwear, overalls, suits, cloth caps, shoes, paper goods and boxes, sheet copper and brass, soap, mechanical and steam toys, electrical devices, refined oils, cotton banding and webbing, tire fabrics, eyelets, sails, boat building, fisheries, automobile bodies, automobile tops, awnings and tents, carbonated beverages, fermented beverages, boilers, dairy products, go-carts, chemicals, cigars, men's trousers, taps and dies, concrete blocks, confectionery, rope, cordage and twine, fertilizers, prepared foods, tacks, ice cream, ladders, looms, machinery, mattresses, proprietary medicines, pickles, home and commercial freezing equipment, plating, wood screws, canned fruits and vegetables, pajamas, automatic vending machines, furniture, dyeing and finishing, molded rubber products, druggists, sundries, golf balls, etc.

Across the harbor in Fairhaven are some substantial industries producing boats, yachts, marine railways, marine construction, tracks, nails, eyelets, castings, loom cranks, machinery, ice cream, insect screens, oil refining, sails, toilet preparations, etc.

Much available land for industrial building sites remains, with railroad sidings easy to procure. Railroad spur tracks serve New Bedford well and also connect with tide water. Harbor front sites are available for both rail and water shipping. There are 24 wharves in New Bedford and Fairhaven available to manufacturers.

NINETY-EIGHT years ago, the firm of Wheaton & Brownell started business on Middle Street manufacturing carbonated beverages. The equipment and methods used then were crude in comparison to the hygienic care and processes of today.

IN the death of Mr. Brownell, the firm name was changed to Hiram Wheaton & Sons and in 1916 John Haran purchased the business. His son, Luke, a veteran of World War II, is now President and Manager.

OUR present building, in which we have been manufacturing and selling fine quality bottled goods since 1861, was the location of a plant that made hardtack for food on the whaling boats.

AS the OLDEST SODA MANUFACTURER in the United States, we are equally proud of this record of history and the high quality of our products steadily maintained in the past and the future.

Collective bargaining in the textile industry proves one thing dramatically. That is when there is mutual understanding of the problems of the worker and of management, and when there is a deep-rooted determination to make collective bargaining work, it works.
